A Summer of Psalms

Greetings to all of our Central Church family and friends! I hope that with the start of our “warm” (chuckling as I write that word) season, that you are all well and living in the light of the Son!

As I was concluding our Practical Discipleship series, one of the takeaways I gave was for us to read one psalm per day for the rest of the year. That would land us on October 16th for the end of this practical/spiritual exercise. And to encourage us in this venture, I have been posting a psalm per day (except on Sundays) on my Facebook page. My plan is to post a psalm throughout the summer months (okay, end of August).

Why? Because starting from this Sunday, I will be starting my “Summer of Psalms” sermon series.

What is a “psalm”?

There have been various ways to call this part of the Bible. “Mizmor” is the Hebrew word that is translated into “Psalms”, which in Greek means songs sung to the accompaniment of harps. The Hebrew word does not carry this same musical attachment. But ultimately, the psalms were generally sung in public (though used in private, to be sure).

My plan for this new series is not to present the psalms from beginning to end. Rather, my plan is to explore the themes and promises that these worship words conveyed, as well as appreciate how Jesus fulfilled them for us!

I hope you will join us in exploring the book of Psalms!

1. Please continue to read with us daily! A psalm per day!
2. As we read through the psalms (indeed through all parts of the Bible), please let God’s Word speak to our lives.

3. Please gather for worship with us throughout the summer months! One helpful way is for everyone who is joining in online worship to leave a simple greeting or an encouragement to one another on the YouTube page. Better yet, share how God is speaking to and working in your lives through these psalms.

Finally, I am excited to see how the Lord will once again bless our children through our Summer Camp! If you have little ones, please sign up and join us for "Illumination Station"! Registration is available on the Central Church splash page, centralpresbyterianchurch.net !

Blessings to all!

In Christ our King,
